AS COLUMBUS LEFT PALOS.

THE CARAVEL SANTA MARIA SAILS FROM THE ANCIENT SPANISH PORT.

ESCORTED OUT TO SEA BY A FLOTILLA-THE 400TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE BEGINNING

HARRISON'S GREETING.

Palos, Aug., 3 .- This was the 400th anniversary if the day on which Columbus set sail from Palos sestward on his voyage of discovery, and the lestifities arranged here for celebrating the day were carried out with great spirit. view from the town, however, was obscured by thick mist which hung over the river, and which made it impossible to see more than a dim outline of the hulls of the vessels lying at

At 6 o'clock, the hour at which Columbus becan his voyage, the caravel Santa Maria, which is constructed in imitation of the vessel of that came belonging to the Columbus expedition, and which had been lying off shore all night, set her sails for her passage through the lines of warships anchored outside the bar; but, owing to the prevalence of a dead calm, a line was run from a gunboat, and she was towed down stream, followed by the Spanish flotilla in single file. The Minister of Marine, Senor Montigo, was on board the warship Legaspi.

The voyage down the river past the monastery of Larabida, on which building the flags of all The American States were flying, to the bar occupied

Outside the bar were moored the vessels of the fereign squadrons which had come to take part in the celebration. These vessels were formed in lines, between which the caravel passed amid thundering salutes and deafening cheers.

The mist and the smoke from the guns made it impossible to watch the manocuvres of the which followed for some distance the route taken by Columbus. Fifteen vessels of the Spanish flotilla convoyed the Santa Maria sev by the Spanish Minister of Marine for the vessels to return, a farewell salute was given the caravel At 9 o'clock the little vessel re-entered the river. The town of Huelva is crowded with visitors, and all the buildings, both private and public, are gayly decorated. Madrid, Aug., 3 .- Senor Castelar, who is spend ing the summer at St. Sebastian, has complete his series of articles on Columbus for "The Century Magazine," and is now preparing a large volume, which will embrace these articles and documentary materials, on the same subject, to be published in Spanish.

Washington, Aug. 3.—The following cable mes

La Rabida.

The President:
Four hundred years ago to-day Columbus sailed from Palos, discovering America. The United States flag is being hoisted this moment in front of Convent La Rabida, along with banners of all American States. Batteries and ships saluting, accompanied by enthusiastic acclamations of the people, army and navy. God bless America. PRIETO, Alcalde of Palos.

PRIETO, Alcalde of Palos.

Department of State, Washington, Aug. 3, 1892
Senor Prieto, Alcalde, de Palos, La Rabida, Spain:
The President of the United States directs me to cordially acknowledge your message of greeting.
I pon this memorable day, thus fittingly celebrated,
the people of the new Western world, in grateful reverence to the name and fame of Columbus, join hands with the sons of the brave sailors of Palos and Huelva, who manued the discoverer's caravels.

At Nijnt Novgorod the disease 1s decreasing, and many of the workmen who fied in fright when the epidemic was at its height are refurning to their homes. The attendance at the fair, which is held annually at Nijni Novgorod, has been small owing to the dread of the disease felt by all classes.

After the suppression of the riots in Tashkend several thousand insurgent Sarts fled from the city and tried to cross the province of Syr Daria into Ferghana, but were repulsed by the local troops. The insur-rection has spread to Ferghana, and the position of Russians there is critical, as they do not possess sufficient men to cope with the Insurgents, par of their forces having gone to the Pamirs. The Governor ral of Turkestan refuses to send reinforcement Tashkend, where the Moslems threaten to revolt. It has been learned that the Tashkend riots were due not solely to cholera, but partly to religious excitement caused orders from the Governor, interfering with rite-

Berlin, Aug. 3.—The issue of passports from Breslau and other frontier places to Russian Poland has been restricted on account of the prevalence of cholera in Russia. The entry of Russian workmen has been forbidden, and Russian barges plying on the River Wartha are rigidly overhauled.

THE POPE'S POLICY IN REGARD TO FRANCE Rome, Aug. 3 .- Leo XIII replies by an inflexible negative to all the persons who have been or are trying to detach him from his democratic and repu Ican polley toward France. He tells every one who aches him on the subject that his duty is Persevere in the great design, which he consider as an historical mission. The other day.

M. Luigi Sacchetti, who carried the Golden Rose to an historical mission. The other day, receiving Queen of Portugal, the Pope conversed long with him on the situation in France. M. Sacchetti, who has just passed some time in Faris, commented on ukics of the position of the Papai Nuncio there, and the extent of the opposition to the believ. The Pope replied with firmness: "We is that, but we will conquer."

A WATERSFOUT AT TRIESTE.

Trieste, Aug. 3 .- An immense dark-gray, funnel shaped cloud made its appearance over the harbot to-day, and in a short time was joined by a pitlar of water which seemed to be sucked up until its * tremendous waterspout, which after reaching the quay broke, doing much damage to property. of life was caused, though an empile was passing along the quny when the waterspout broke was overturned and the seven passenger which it contained sustained injuries. Several tram-tars along the quay were thrown from the tracks and many buildings were damaged.

MOUNT ETNA'S RENEWED ACTIVITY. Catania, Aug. 3 .- The eruptions at Mount Etna have begun again with renewed violence. Enormous masses of laws are issuing from the southern crater and a arge stream of molten lava has made its appearance on the eastern side.

Considerable surprise has been scused here by an

Rome, Aug. 3.-The following comes from a high effort of Archbishop Corrigan to establish the inexactness of one of the statements of the Pope in his recen letter to the Bishops of the province of New-York. After the consecration of the new Bishop of Brooklyn the Archbishop of New-York addressed a letter to the Pope, signed by himself and some of his suffragans threat had been made to the Pope that a culturhampf would break out in America if he should venture to n Faribault and Stillwater. In his reply the Pope stated distinctly that nobody ever made him such New-York, in order to prove his point, collected a bishop of St. Paul and from the letter of Cardinal (Abbons that seemed to bear a different sense, and forwarded them to Rome to the members of the Sacred College, wrapped up in separate copies of the lette of the Pope, in order to show by contrast the mistake

But the quotations are not to the pe one of them does either Cardinal Gibbons or Arch bishop Ireland ever say to the Pope that in Ame remote danger overhanging the Church in Americ e permitted to grow. This is evident to any one baying an opportunity of reading the quotation in their proper context. Besides, it is plainly absurin their proper context. Besides, it is planly absurd to any reflecting mind that in a country as wise and practical as America the condemnation by the Pope of two small schools could provoke a culturkampt. To remove all possibility of equivocation, Archidshop Corrigan might publish the jetter he addressed to the Pope, and then the public could see for itself how exact is the statement of the Pope, for his reply was made to that letter, and not to the memorial of the Archidshop of St. Paul. ently made to file a petition against the return of Arnold Morley as member of the House of Commo declared to have been elected for the district by a majority of 577 over H. Finch-Hatton, Conservative, din, Aug. 3 .- At a meeting of the leading men bers of the Parnellite party, in this city to-day, it was agreed that a petition be issued protesting against the return of Michael Davitt and Patrick Fullam, At Farnellites, to the House of Commons, from the North and South divisions of Meath, respectively. This action is taken on the ground that the election of the two men was the result of undue influence exercised by the priests over the electors.

THE METEOR AGAIN DEFEATED.

PRINCE HENRY'S BOAT ALSO OUTSAILED-HOW THE KATEER LIVES ON BOARD THE IMPERIAL YACHT.

Cowes, Aug. 3.- Emperor William's yacht again sufered defeat today, being beaten in the race for the squadron prizes by the Iverna. In the race for the Australian Cap. Prince Henry's yacht Irene was besten by the Queen Mab.

The Meteor started in the match, which was sailed over the Queen's course, at half past 10, she had a competitors, besides the Iverna, the Columbine and Marian. The Meteor crossed the line before to starting gun was fired, and was consequently recalled and compelled to take the fact place. Emperor Will am did not attempt to sail the Meteor, but went sim ply, as he did yesterday, as one of the crew. The satting master and the crew are Englishmen. The

The Queen gave a dinner party in the Indian Room at Osborne House this evening. Among the guess-were Emperor William, the Prince of Wales, Princ Henry of Frassia, the Duke of Connaught, the Duk of Schleswig-Holstein, Lord and Lady Salisbury and a few other notables. At the end of the dinner the Queen drank to the health of Emperor Whiliam, who reciprocated by drinking to the Queen's health.

The Imperial yacht Ealzer Adler, on which the Emperor made the voyage from Wilhelmshaven to Cowes has been entirely refitted and attracts much attention Among her decorations are many paintings by the Emperor and Prince Henry. The entire farniture of the vessel is of the simplest description. The Em peror's study is filled with works of reference, and with piles of English, French and German newspapers, and upon the table lies a copy of Zola's latest novel "La Debacle." The only article tending to relieve the extreme plainness of the dining-room is a piano surmounted by portraits of the Empress and her sor Prince Bismarck and a photograph of Count v Moltke. In one of the parlors is a tablet inscribed Count von Moltke once occupied this room." During his present trip on his yacht the Emper rises each day at 7 o'clock. He takes a cold bath after which he cats a light breakfast. Then he receives reports, after which he devotes an hour or tw A second brenkfast is then served, to which to work. A second breakfast is then served, to which the efficers of the Kalser Adler are bidden in rotation. After taking exercise in the shape of vigorous walks shout the decks of the yacht, the Emperor retires to his study and spends the rest of the afternoon in work, and at 8 o'clock dinner is served.

T. E. DAVIS FOR GOVERNOR.

REMARKABLE SCENE IN THE WEST VIRGINIA REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

AN OUTBURST OF ENTHUSIASM FOR THE SECRE-TARY OF WAR-MR. ELKINS, HOWEVER, HAD POSITIVELY DECLINED THE NOMINATION.

Huntington, W. Va., Aug. 3.-Thomas Davis, of Taylor County, was nominated for Governor by the Republican State Convention tonight, by acclamation after the first ballot. The convention was the most enthusiastic, thoroughly earnest and good-natured political body that has met in West Virginia in many years. There were General Nathan Goff, recently appointed a judge of the United States District Court, who such a position that he could not accept, and Secretary Elkins was similarly situated. positively declined the honor, but the convention was determined, and would have named Secretary Elkins, who was its chairman, even after his dec nation, had he not positively repeated it.

A misunderstanding of the position of Messrs Elkins and Goff was the cause of the persistency of the delegates, but when it was cleared up they were almost as enthusiastic for Davis, who recognized as a strong man, popular with his

A FIGHTING PARSON'S VICTORY. West Union, Ohio, Aug. 3.-At Mahogany, a small town about twenty miles from here, an exciting fight occurred last night at the Methodist church. A young nan, whom the minister had publicly reproved for whispering in church, came in with a number of hifriends, and proceeded to create a disturbance. He was warned to leave, but, instead of doing so, attacked the minister, who threw off his coat and went at the young men. The members of the flock also made war upon the disturbers. The pews and chairs hurt and some of them thrown through the doorway. Finally, the paster gained the upper hand of the principal disturber and thrushed him soundly. After the floters had been thrown out, the fighting parson, bloody and buttered as he was, mounted to his pulpit again and resumed his sermon.

YACHTS DRIFT INTO NEW-LONDON HARBOR

AN EXASPERATING DAY FOR THE TARS OF THE NEW-YORK YACHT CLUB-POOR SHOWING OF

THE FAMOUS GLORIANA-A BRILL

ANT MARINE DISPLAY.

London to-night 125 yachts and five men-of-war are at anchor. Few harbors in the world have seen a marine display such as came to this one. The water is as smooth as glass; a delightful coolness, born on the neighboring ocean, is in the atmosphere, and thousands of lights sparkle on the vessels of the ficet. The towering hull of the Philadelphia, from which even white paint and gilding cannot take the wicked look, is surrounded by a fleet of grace and beauty.

The run to-day from Morris Cove to this place was not an unqualified success. In fact, it was a most exasperating affair. This was all on account of the weather. Even Commodore Gerry's proverbial luck in weather cannot stand the taken the fleet two days to get here, and in these two days there has been no good racing, only a struggle with calms and adverse winds. plea urged for having the rendezvous at Glen this year was that some yachs owners wanted to see the start. On the steamhoat which came up from New-York yesterday morning to bring some yacht owners to ee the departure of the fleet there were about been put to inconvenience. Now, however, that all the fleet is assembled here the cruise can be said to have fairly begun and the long and disagreeable preface to have ended. Now, may the winds from the ocean caverns blow and salt spray dash on flying sails! The vachts feel to-night the long and gentle swell that draws up through the race with the "life of the awakenng sea, its motion and its mystery."

All of the yachts which left Glen Core ye day morning did not run into Morris Cove; some put in at Black Rock and some kept on to New-London. When a gun from the Commodore's ship announced the time for colors this morning, however, thirty-six yachts lay around the Electra Of these twenty-eight were sailing yachts and started in the race to Naw-London. The Ituna steamed out of the harbor about 9:30 and took up a position off the breakwater to time the start ers. Then the fleet came pouring out before a northwest wind which blew steadily and gave promise of a good race. The wind was a delusion and a snare, however, and died of inanition before the Thimble Islands were reached. The yachts crossed the line in the following order: Gloriana, Gevalia, Admiral, Wasp, Quickstep, Sayonara, Azalea, Losca, Fortuna, Alert, Katrina, Merlin, Bauntless, Ventura, Marguerite, Comanche, Atlantic, Oenone, Alcaes, Shamrock, Iroquois, Constellation, Gracie, Coronet, Sagitta, Romona, Phantom and Liris. The schooners had their big jibtopsails and their maintopmast staysalls set, and the sloops carried their large headsails. The steam yachts formed a procession to the southward of the racing fleet.

The yachts had a quartering breeze, and crossed the line with booms to the starboard. The Alcaea began to move rapidly at once, and went through the fleet to windward. Her success was only temporary, however, for the wind began to die out, and soon the whole fleet was on top of her. The wind grew fainter and fainter, and before long the vachts were all in a bunch, just a mass of white sails close together, barely moving over the surface of the water. The sun shone with a brilliancy which made the sails gleam and the water sparkle, but also made things uncomfortably hot. Just to the westward of the Thimble Islands . The order was as follows: Fanny, Iroquois, Gracie, Dauntless, Gevalia, Wasp, Quicksiep, Liris, Atlantic, Phantom, Merlin, Marguerite, Katrina, Romona, Viator, Sayonara, Azalea, Ventura and Comanche, the rest feebly following astern. The Gloriana had no luck from the start. She cre the line first and when the wind died out, the It is only the reputation of John Barr as a sailing master that has prevented among the yachtsmen severe criticism as to the manner in which the Gloriana has been handled. It is impossible that a boat which was so wonderfully fast last season should have lost all her fleetness this season. She had little show, from start to finish, to-day, alid when she did, she didn't take advantage of it, It was pathetic to see a boat with the great fame of the Gloriana making such an exhibition of herself. As to the Lasca and Alcaea, they wallowed about amid the fleet, first one getting a puff of wind and then the other, and shifting their relative positions as each puff of air struck them. The old Monnow one of the "has beens," held them both for a time. Finally, the Lasca got a favorable bit of wind and drew ahead, leaving the Alcaes in the wake and made her victory sure. So far she has proved a better boat than the Gardner schooner, but the cruise is young yet.

lied out completely, and left the fleet in two long lines with a wide space of water between them. The yachts were so evenly aligned that they looked as if they were a great white line of soldiers on dress parade and Commodore Gerry had given the order, "Rear open order, march! The wind new sprang up lightly out of the s uthwest, and there was a great shifting of booms and light sails. The military parade of the yachts was broken up. They remembered what they were there for and began to move to the eastward. They moved languidly, it is true, but then they moved, and that was a great deal. The fleet was now sailing in two squadrons. The Wasp was a long way ahead, leading the first squadron. The Sayonara was next, and then, a considerable way astern of her, came the Fanny; still further astern the Marguerite Lasca and Quickstep were close together in the order named. The schooner Iroquois was leading the second division. At 1:25 the Gloriana made an effort to get out from among the yachts, where she had been taking an afternoon nap, and set her spinnaker. The Wasp set hers at the same time. The Gloriana did somewhat better after she set her spinnaker, but her fate in the race had been sealed hours ago.

So the boats went languidly along toward New-

London, and everybody was working hard to invent new terms in which to characterize a Glen

Pefore Falkner's Island was reached the wind

Cove rendezvous. Off Cornfield Point lightship the Sayonara went ahead of the Wasp. After the Wasp came the Fanny, then the Lasca, and some considerable distance astern of her wast he Marguerite. Then came a long and lonely expanse of doing her best for an impossible victory. Astera of the Gloriana was another long stretch of deserted water, and then came the schooner Shamrock. The Sayonara did not stay long ahead of the Wasp. The black sloop not only regained her lead, but increased it greatly, and put enough water between herself and the Sayonara to render the taking of the lead again by the latter boat an impossibility. The Wasp was away ahead now and moving at apparently a good pace toward Bartlett's Reef lightship. As far behind the Say-BartleWs Reef lightship. As far behind the Sayonara as that boat was behind the Wasp came the schooner Lasca. Another interval and then came the Fanny and the Marguerite, not far apart.
There was an enormous interval now, and then came the Gloriana. The rest of the fleet followed far astern. In this order the leading yachts approached the mouth of the Thames and the harbor of New-Lendon. The old favorite, Gracie, which did remarkably well feathe run of yesterday, did good work, and is sailing in excellent form this space. She was the first racks to reach Megri
